

would h.iw attndi*»!, h.*«l hi'. j*hy.uil pcrmittt*1, lutt h-*»<nt tu j»if }»>tr« t» ^j^-.tk ff him, Vitu and I'liurntr; . Hi .it j l>i>mn»i» «f Stiidon ir|»u-.riiU'»l Pa:ri>'nu» and TSir^jsliilti'* thr Goth €*ttttr HJJ h Siall »»» f the nuiihrm iMihatiairt • probably t»» li»»trn iath< s than I .|HMk Kviilciitlv* thi*n_f the co»ipsniit«»u t*t tltt* i'uuikil tt*i i «*vrittitit*liu injly FiiHti ni, (iivrk, n^f>t Lattu, w*i'i llic Liiljti*iljf* spoken, anil certainly Cjirrk* m»t I,atm,\ is the? hrrr"y under discus^inn, fur tlu Aiifii <,uniinvtrNy iiiitlil w*t have an'sttn in th<* western half of tlu* Eittfiirr* Fur all practical ptttrposf •* tin Cmmcti til Nic;t%i wan a wrll* attciidrd .synod 4*f tht* Syii*trt atui K{;y(itianChurchcH. The opinions tluTu <*xpmiiuU*d wrre the opinions of the Christ Un schoohi of Antioch and Alexandria.
We may take the namtss of a few of tlu* bishop?* as they through the jjitten of Nicant, t*;u,h ucconv* paaicd by ut leant two prcsbytcts and three nhive«H_s riding on horseback or in carriages* with a train of animals following, Alexander was there, bringing with him fourteen bishops from the valley of the Nile and five from Libya* TThe most con* spicuous of these were Potammon of Heracleopolis and Paplmutiu.s from the Thebaid, both of whom had lost an eye in the late persecution, while Paph* nuttus limped painfully, for he had been hamstrung.
Eustathius, the Patriarch of Antioch, came at the head of the Syrian and Palestinian bishops, some of whom, like ICusebius of C&sarea, were gravely suspected of being unsound in the Faith and of having been influenced by the seductions of Arianism, while others, like Macarius of Jerusalem, were staunch